

Prof. Dr. Eva Groß is a sociologist and criminologist. She worked as a research assistant at the Institute for Interdisciplinary Research on Conflict and Violence at Bielefeld University (2008-2015), and at the Criminological Research Centre of the Lower Saxony Criminal Police Office (2015-2018). Since December 2018 she holds professorship in criminology and sociology at the Hamburg University of Applied Police Sciences. Her research focuses on the police, group-focus enmity, prejudice, prejudice-motivated crime, right-wing extremism, (youth) violence, (online) radicalisation, victimisation/dark field, economisation of society, institutional anomie and social inequality.

Prof. Dr. Ulrike Zaehring studied law and completed her doctorate in 2015 on the topic of 'Legal and structural framework conditions of youth welfare in the context of intra-familial homicides against children'. She worked as a researcher at the Criminological Research Institute of Lower Saxony (KFN) for seven years, most recently as head of the project 'Homicides of 6-13 year old children in Germany'. After her holding the position as Managing Director of the German Association for Juvenile Courts and Juvenile Court Assistance (DVJJ), she was appointed Professor of Criminology and Criminal Law at the Hamburg University of Applied Police Sciences, in Dec., 2018. Her special areas of interest are homicide and violent crime, in particular against children; intra-family violence; empirical police research; democracy-related attitudes; group-focused enmity; juvenile delinquency; wrongful convictions and reconviction; fear of crime; and white-collar crime.

Dr. Anabel Taefi is a sociologist and has been working as a research assistant at the Hamburg University of Applied Police Sciences, since 2018. She worked as a research assistant at the Criminological Research Institute of Lower Saxony (KFN, 2008-2009), and in the department of Criminology and Interdisciplinary Crime Prevention at the German Police University in Muenster (2009-2018). Her main research interests include developmental and life-course criminology, (severe) juvenile delinquency and violence, domestic violence and the processes of escalation in violent interactions, origins of prejudices, and urban criminology.